Five Holy Cross High School alumni inducted into Wall of Honour

The Holy Cross High School community celebrated the accomplishments of five of its distinguished alumni at an awards ceremony Friday morning.

The diverse group of graduates will join 42 former students on the school's Wall of Honour to recognize their significant achievements in their field or area of expertise.

This year's inductees are:

Robert Enright (1963-67), Research Professor, Fine Arts Critic, for his contributions to the academic and art communities.

Dr. Tom Hack (1976-80), Clinical Psychologist and Cancer Researcher, for his leadership in advancing patient care in cancer treatment.

Trevor Herriot (1972-76), Canadian Naturalist, Writer, for his significant contributions to environmental issues in the media and literature.

Keith Martell (1976-80), Finance – CEO First Nations Bank of Canada, for his leadership in delivering financial services for Indigenous peoples and his contributions to the business community.

Jerry McHale (1963-67), Law – Professor, for his extensive contributions to law and public policy, particularly in the area of family and child welfare.

Holy Cross principal Lisa Hodson said, "It's a privilege to welcome our graduates and honour them this way. It sends such a strong message to our students that they too can accomplish great things and make a difference in their community. We're blessed to have these, and many more, role models for our school community."
